RIVER VALLEY STUDY CLUB

Drs. Burzin, Gagnon, and Geiman are members of the River Valley Study Club, an affiliate of the Seattle Study Club® network. What does that mean to you, the patient? It means your dental professional has made a commitment to lifelong learning to provide you with the best care and newest techniques available in orthodontics and dentistry.

As members of the River Valley Study Club, Drs. Burzin, Gagnon, and Geiman spend time outside the office at monthly meetings and attend the national Seattle Study Club Symposium to keep abreast of the latest developments and treatment options available to patients.

The Seattle Study Club organization is often referred to as a university without walls. It is recognized as one of the most advanced continuing education groups for dental professionals in the nation. Members participate in hands-on demonstrations, problem-solving workshops, panel discussions and clinical treatment planning sessions. River Valley Study Club also invites internationally known speakers to share information at our local meetings. The Seattle Study Club network consists of over 250 affiliated clubs around the world with a combined membership of 6,700 dentists. For more information, please visit seattlestudyclub.com.

Because your orthodontist is a member of this prominent group, you can rest assured that you're in good hands.
